YELLOW LIGHTS AT LEAST ARE LESS ATTRACTIVE TO INSECTS

Yellow lights don't repel insects.. as many people think.. but at least they don't act as a lure.

John M. Amos, associate entomologist at VPI, says that actually the insects just don't see yellow lights. Insects are attracted to the blue and ultra violet light of the spectrum, and the yellow screens out the bug attractor.

If you'd like to have less bugs at the back yard picnic, yellow lights should help. And try placing a strong blue light (regular bulb) in a remote corner to invite the insects to a picnic of their own, leaving the people area relatively free of insects under the yellow light. Of course, this doesn't kill the pests.. that's where aldrin and dieldrine come in.

MOUNTAIN TOP HORSE RIDING AT SKYLAND

Skyland, August 19.- If you'd like to get on your high horse literally, you can find the answer in Shenandoah National Park.

Here at the Skyland vacation center, which is among the numerous resort and travel facilities operated in the Park and along the Skyline Drive, is one of the highest based public stables in the East.

Skyland itself is at an altitute of 3,540 feet, but when you secure your mounts you can strike out on a well traveled trail that leads to the summit of nearby Stony Man Mountain, elevation 4,010 feet. The mountain is the Park's most famous and its second highest.

Visitors to the Park and Skyline Drive keep the 20 horses of Skyland stables busy from May through the middle of October. The famous Appalachian Trail, which extends along the mountaintops from Maine to Georgia, is a bridle path in the Park. In addition, there is Dickey Ridge Trail in the northern area of the Park as well as important side trails and the fire roads. All lead to interesting and fascinating scenic spots, and all are constantly maintained for safe riding.

Most popular places for riders to visit are Stony Man Mountain and Whiteoak Canyon, where cascades and giant hemlock create sights that are unrivaled for the East.

Most riders, because of Skyland's accessibility to so many points of interest, are content to go out for just a few hours. But for those who are the real outdoors type, overnight rides can be readily arranged.

Those who love to ride regularly find the stable on the mountain top ideal in summer with the cool, crisp air of the mountains kind to both horse and rider alike.

STATISTICS

The first five months of 1954 saw the nation as a whole with a decrease of five per cent in traffic deaths when compared to the same period of 1953. Thirty states had fewer deaths and their percentages of reduction ranged from Oregon's one to West Virginia's 35. Virginia's stood at 19. Seventeen states showed increases which ran from New Mexico's two per cent to Rhode Island's 39. Florida remained the same.

Admissions To McLean House Decrease in '54

Total attendance in the National Park Service area at Old Appomattox Court House has held up to the same general figures as last summer, but admissions to the McLean House are off considerably.

The figures for admissions to the McLean House are:

July, 1953	5,047
July, 1954	3,445
August, 1954	5,670
August, 1954	4,181

This has been approximately off set by increased attendance at the Museum and other historic sites in the area, which have caused total visitors in the area to be approximately 10,000 each month.

This decline in admission to the McLean House may have been influenced by introduction of a 25¢ charge as of July 1 this year. The number of local people has fallen off in admissions, it is believed, due to the fact that most of them have visited the famed building many times before since its restoration by the State of Virginia. This is likely too, in the light of the fact that the addition of many new items in the New Muesum, which is located in Clover Hill Tavern, recently restored, has influenced local visitors to visit that with guests instead of the McLean House. The famous Guillaume oil painting of the Surrender Scene and an electric map are among the season's additions at the Muesm.

During the two months this summer, cash receipts at the McLean House for admissions were $652.25 in July and $728.50 in August, for a total of $1,380.75 since the introduction of the admission charge.

New Entrance To Cemetery

It was announced today that a new parking area will be provided at the Confederate Cemetery at Old Appomattox Court House. Due to the new by-pass highway now being constructed, the present entrance to the cemetery will be closed and a new entrance provided on the opposite side.

WORK IN PROGRESS ON BY-PASS HIGHWAY

Work is in progress of building a by-pass highway around the Old Appomattox Court House village. It is expected that stone base foundation will be placed today. The road will leave the present Route 24 just this side of the Confederate Cemtery and rejoin it at the Memorial bridge at Appomattox River.

Transco Praised for Work in Game Program

A greatly expanded planting program for upland game was carried out during the spring months of this year. This is a continuation of efforts by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries to bring about restoration of some of the habitat which has been destroyed through agricultural practices.

Considered of commensurate importance is the follow-up work which is being done in checking results of the widespread plantings which have been made every year since the long-range wildlife program was launched. The protracted drought of last year was hurtful, just as it was to field crops, but, in general, plantings in past years have stood up well.

Materials used this spring were sufficient to plant 22,834 separate one-eighth of an acre wildlife establishments. Plots of this size are recommended, but a field border or feed patch is of benefit to wildlife on many acres of surrounding territory. A great deal has been done in recent years to offset habitat destruction throughout Virginia. This is particularly true on steadily increasing numbers of individual farms.

Fine progress has been made in the establishment of special demonstrational areas in nine districts of the state. These are placed with a view to their being used by large numbers of citizens. These plantings have been made through active cooperation with high schools, military personnel on the reservations, sportsmen's clubs and others.

Of particular interest is work which is being done with representatives of the R. E. A. Cooperatives, the soil conservationists and landowners in establishing wildlife plantings of the rights-of-way. In Surry and Appomattox Counties, the utility company bulldosed and disked the ground and the land was fertilized, limed and seeded.

The Transcontinental Pipe Line Corporation is continuing to be most cooperative in Appomattox and in Buckingham, where approximately 19 miles of wooded rights-of-way were seeded by employees of the company, the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries furnishing the seed and the active help of a game technician, and a local sportsmen's club donating the fertilizer.

Observations of progress of plantings made in recent years are proving helpful in a number of ways. Already there is a trend away from the use of slips in establishing the shrub lespedeza, for it is found that equally as good results can be obtained from the use of seed, which are easier for farmers to handle.

While the actual plantings, which are multiplying year by year, are undoubtedly having an effect upon overall production of upland game the educational value of these efforts is of farreaching importance. Landowners are realizing that they can have greater abundance of wildlife through simple methods of improving habitat.

Light Rainfall in August

August went into the record book as another dry month in this section of Virginia. According to W. S. Taylor, who reports rainfall here to the weather bureau he had a measurement of 2.30 inches of rain during the month of August. This is a slight fraction more than July, and considerably below the desired total

Foreign Visitors To Tour Farms

Fifteen foreign visitors will inspect Virginia farms and be briefed on programs of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service during the week of September 13.

P. H. DeHart, assistant director of the Extension Service, says the group will include four Brazilians six Filipinos, one Iranian, one Costa Rican, two Thailanders, and one representative of the national government of China. They will be accompanied by R. E. Smith, assistant community development specialist, University of Georgia, as technical consultant.

The group, all of whom hold positions in professional agricultural organizations in their respective countries, will be at VPI Monday September 13 and Tuesday morning September 14. Tuesday afternoon they will be in Roanoke County for discussions with representatives of feed packers, banks and Chamber of Commerce representatives on the livestock program, and for visits to farms.

Wednesday morning, September 15, they will continue farm visits in Roanoke County, leaving for tours of Appomattox County farms that afternoon. Thursday they will spend partially in Amelia County, partially observing farm and home practices enroute to Richmond. Friday, they are scheduled to visit forestry demonstrations and seed production on farms between Richmond and Tappahannock.

Saturday morning they will leave for Washington, D. C.

2 Local Boys To Play at VPI

Two Appomattox boys will be out for football at V. P. I. this fall. Bill Jamerson, a varsity player at Tech, left Tuesday to join in early practice sessions. Jamerson played at Tech last year, and is in good shape for the season and hopes to make another fine showing this season. He is a lineman.

Carter Woodson leaves Sept. 5 to join the V. P. I. squad as a freshmen. He was a star tackle at A. H. S.

Farmers Elect ASC Board In September

County and community committeemen to administer ASC programs will be elected by farmers in September, E. D. Duncan, chairman of the State ASC Committee, announced today.

This year the elections will be held by mail with baliots mailed to farmers from the ASC county office on or before September 15 with ballots required to be returned so as to be received in the county office by September 23.

The machinery for holding elections is quite different from that used in prior years, said Mr. Duncan. The regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture have been revised to provide for important election functions being performed by the County Election Boards and Community Election Boards.

County Election Boards will consist of the County Agent, as Chairman; the county heads of SCS and FHA, and the county heads of general farm organizations operating in the county. These boards will select Community Election Boards of three farmers from each community or magisterial district. Incumbent county or community ASC committeemen are not eligible to serve on Community Election Boards.

Asks Drivers To Play Safe

Richmond, Sept. 1.- Pointing to the most heartening savings of lives in Virginia during the Memorial Day and Fourth of July week-ends this year, Colonel C. W. Woodson, Jr., Superintendent of State Police and Executive Chairman of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, asked all who expect to drive or walk in Virginia to work together for an equally safe Labor Day week-end.

This year, both Memorial Day and Fourth of July fell on Sunday to give longer holiday periods than usual since the following Mondays were generally recognized as holidays. In spite of this, the four deaths of Memorial Day week-end were 12 less than those for the 1953 holiday and the seven of the Fourth of July week-end showed a reduction of 14 when compared to the 1953 toll.

These reductions Colonel Woodson attributed largely to the continuing effect of the second offender speed law and a more healthy attitude of the general public. The effect of radar, he said, cannot yet be determined since Virginia shows approximately the same percentage of death reduction now that it did June 1 when a campaign to inform the public on the use of the device went into effect and on July 1 when its use began in earnest. Deaths this year, he said, have run consistently about 20 per cent below those of last year.

Noting that Virginia has participated in the "Slow Down and Live" campaign carried out by 24 states since Memorial Day, Colonel Woodson remarked, "It appears a good many of our drivers have done just that!" Average death reduction for the 24 participating states from Memorial Day through the Fourth of July week-end was 11.5.

The Safety Official promised all available troopers would be on the highways and repeated previous warnings that motorists drive at reasonable speeds; refrain from driving when tired, sleepy or drinking; make allowances for abnormal conditions and allow ample time for the distances they intend to drive.

PEERS HOUSE COMPLETED

The Peers House at Old Appomattox Court House has now been restored, and is being occupied by one of the National Park Service employees as a dwelling. This home was the residence of the county court clerk, George T. Peers, at the time of the Surrender here on April 9, 1865. Restoration of the home was one of the major Park Service projects for this year.

Bragg Begins Seventh Season

Coach Gordon Bragg is starting his seventh season as coach at the Appomattox High School, and will face a heavy ten-game schedule in high hopes of maintaining his remarkably successful record as Blue Hornet mentor. Bragg has never had a losing season with football at A. H. S. His overall record is 41 victories, 13 defeats and 6 ties. The Bragg record by years:

Year	W	L	T
1948	5	4	2
1949	9	1	0
1950	4	4	2
1951	9	1	0
1952	8	1	1
1953	2	1	6
Total	41	13	6

In preparing for his seventh season, the popular coach is looking to the convenience of the fans who attend the home games. An extra 200 new seats are in process of being set up at the town park, and an additional 200 new seats are being moved down from the school grounds. These 400 seats will be on the football field sidelines, giving spectators choice "ringside" positions to view the games.

Tickets for the home games are now being printed and will be ready for sale Monday, when the first home game set for Friday night, Sept. 10, with Bassett High School.

Asked about chances this season, Bragg went on record as believing he will have one of his better back fields and a stout line, somewhat heavier than that of last year. "We hope to win some football games," he declares.

Football practice has begun at Appomattox High School, and Coach Gordon Bragg reports that 60 boys turned out for the first week of practice.

Missing among this year's squad members are 15 players from last year's group, who graduated. There are 24 returning men this season who have had some experience either on varsity or junior varsity teams last season. Some of the boys are a bit "green' about football, but it is hoped that by the end of this month some of the newcomers will be able to help out on the schedule, which includes some of the best Group Two schools in the state. Bill Jamerson and Ed Cawthorne, former A. H. S. stars, have been helping Coach Bragg during the past week, and the squad members have gained a lot of good football knowledge from them.

Boys returning that have varsity experience are: Teddy Mitchell, co-captain; John Rothgeb, co-captain Ralph Harris, Jerry George, James Tweedy, Pete Baber, Ronnie Lewis, Alton Smith, Claude Moore, Jack Burks, Garland Doss, "Boots" Carter, Jimmy Harper, Tommie O'Brien. Boys having junior varsity experience are: Lewis McDearmon Billy Carson, Pete Guill, Frank Cawthorne, "Buddy" Poe, Eddie Rothgeb, John Paulette, John Holland, Jack Caldwell, Dickie O'Brien, Raymond Ferguson, Wesley Carr Sam Kerr, Harold Doss, Leon Edmunds, Terrell Martin, Bradley Babcock, Wayne Moore, Luther Reynolds.

Coach Bragg believes that among this group he has the material for another Blue Hornet winner. The team will play five home games this year. Four games are scheduled in the District League play. Teams not played last year include: Princess Anne H. S. of Oceana, Va.; Gretna H. S., and Augusta Military Academy.

The schedule:

Sept. 10.- Bassett High School, here 8:00 P. M.
Sept. 17.- William Fleming High School there 8:00 P. M.
Sept. 24.- Princes Anne High School There 8:00 P. M.
